

Boahmins originated from the Aryans who came from North, travelling through Afghanistan, to Punjab and then to rest of India. They are as much an outsiders as were Mughals or Britishers. Aboriginal tribes & other dwellers of these lands were treated as inferiors & than later considered as Shudras and Panchams. They were as much foreigners trying to civilise the native by robbing away their primitive lifestyle. There is nothing wrong with evolution, be it personal or social or cultural or even technological. There is no shame in borrowing tools and technology to make our lives easier
